8,125,716 Rheumatics in United States

Can All Be Cured by Uric-O.

If rheumatism continues to spread as it has in the past few years, it would seem as though we would before long become a nation of cripples. The terrible destructiveness of this disease is apparent on every side of us. Almost nine out of ten of the cripples one meets had their affliction brought on by rheumatism. How many thousands more there are that are hopelessly bed-ridden and whom we never see. Rheumatism, from the very nature of the disease, can never cure itself, and if neglected is bound to grow worse rather than better. If you ever have any twinges of rheumatism, go to your druggist and get a bottle of Uric-O, the wonderful new rheumatic specific. It will cure you and it is the only treatment in the world that will cure you permanently and thoroughly. Uric-O cures by its direct action on the muscles, blood, and kidneys. It seeks out the poisonous uric and rheumatic acid and drives it from the system and it is only a treatment of such a nature that will ever cure rheumatism. Uric-O is sold in all drug stores. You can test it free of charge if you wish. Just cut out this advertisement and send it to the Smith Drug Company, 160 Smith Building, Syracuse, N. Y., together with your name and the name of your druggist. They will give you an order on him for a 75-cent bottle free, which you can test and try to your own satisfaction. Uric-O is sold and personally recommended in Barre by Red Cross Pharmacy, or Rickett & Wells.

A GREAT STATESMAN.
Humorous Incident of Gladstone's Rivalry With Disraeli.

An anecdote of Gladstone at the time of his greatest rivalry with Disraeli is often retold. At a dinner party the subject of Judaism cropped up. "Admitted," said Gladstone, "that the Hebrews have given the world a philosopher in Spinoza, musicians in Mendelssohn and Meyerbeer, a poet in Heine, the fact remains that they have not produced a single statesman." There was silence for a moment. Every one knew of course that this was a direct allusion to Disraeli. Then one of the company stepped into the breach.

"Mr. Gladstone," he said, "as a matter of fact the Hebrews have produced a statesman and one of the greatest the world has seen."

The lighting instinct of Mr. Gladstone surged up at once. "May I ask, sir," he said pointedly, "who was this Hebrew statesman?"

Every one, anticipating a more than lively scene, waited in tense expectation for the answer. It came in the quietest tones, "Moses, sir." Every one smiled, and Mr. Gladstone joined in the laugh—Vienna Welt.

A Jewel Beyond Price.
Many years ago a Norwegian was taken to a big London hospital suffering from an illness which prevented him from earning his living. Sir Frederick Treves operated upon him and completely cured him of his trouble. Some weeks afterward the man called upon Sir Frederick at his private house, and, much to his surprise, presented him with a coin. At first Sir Frederick refused to take it, but the man would not be put off.

"It is now three years since I left my native land," he said, "and before I came away my wife gave me this coin and told me never to part with it unless I was starving. It is not worth anything, but the value to me I cannot express. When I was in the hospital I made up my mind that you should have it. Since you cured me I have been starving, but I would not part with the coin because I wanted you to have it as a small return for saving my life."

"What magnificent piece of jewelry!" said Sir Frederick when he told the story, "could equal the value of that coin?"—London M. A. F.

The skull consists of twenty-two separate bones, eight of which form the cranium, the remainder entering into the formation of the face.

NEW COLORADO GAME BIRD.
Mountain Forests Will Be Stocked With Capercaillies From Sweden.

Two strange birds arrived in Denver Saturday, having journeyed all the way from Sweden. Now they are domiciled in the city park. If the plans of their owner, W. F. Kendrick, succeed they will be the progenitors of a new race of birds in the Colorado mountains.

They are the capercaillies, pronounced cap-er-kel-ah, and are the size of a small turkey. In habits they are much like grouse and partridge. They thrive best at timber line and subsist on pine, spruce and hemlock buds and mountain berries.

Mr. Kendrick, who is tremendously interested in birds and animals has had an ambition for some time to start the breeding of these birds in Colorado because of their rarity and beauty. He has already bred and liberated thousands of pheasants but the capercaillies were hard to get. For months he has had a commission in Sweden for two perfect birds. As the result of this order the two arrived Saturday.

The capercaillie is about as large as and similar in habits to the American wild turkey, with the advantage that it can endure much more severe hard cold and weather and will live on food such as is obtainable from the tree tops, if necessary, when the ground is deeply covered with snow.

Mr. Kendrick will keep the birds at the park until they breed, his plan being to take the young to the most suitable places in the mountains and liberate them.

A Higher Health Level.
"I have reached a higher health level since I began using Dr. King's New Life Pills," writes Jacob Springer of West Franklin, Maine. "They keep my stomach, liver and bowels working just right. If these pills disappoint you on trial, money will be refunded at Red Cross Pharmacy, Rickett & Wells."

ABOUT THE STATE.

Items of Interest Gleaned from Our Exchanges.

The Rev. Dr. H. A. Roberts of Block Island, R. I., a former Baptist pastor at Montpelier, will be Memorial day orator at Montpelier this year.

During the year 1907 there were five marriages, 24 births, and 17 deaths in Orwell. The combined ages of those who died was 287 years, eleven months, and eleven days, an average of over 28 years.

The Rev. Charles A. Reese, formerly a pastor of the First Baptist church, Rutland, but for eleven years financial secretary of New Theological Seminary, has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Highland Baptist church, Fitchburg, Mass.

Chamberlain Post, No. 1, G. A. R. of St. Johnsbury has engaged Col. George Harvey of New York as its Memorial day orator. Col. Harvey is a native of Peacham, and as is well known is the editor of Harper's Weekly and the North American Review.

Fred Hadley, aged 51 years, who had a summer home at Saxtons River, committed suicide at the Massachusetts Homeopathic hospital in Boston, January 14, by cutting his throat with a razor. It is said that he was despondent because of ill health.

STOWE BUSINESS CHANGE.
H. C. McMahon Buys O. E. Luce's Interest in Store.

Stowe, Jan. 28.—A change has been made in the firm of Miles, McMahon & Co., probably the oldest firm in Lamellville. O. E. Luce has sold his interest in the firm to H. C. McMahon, son of C. L. McMahon, the second member of the company. Mr. Luce has been in the business 28 years. Mr. McMahon 26 years and James E. Miles of Burlington 20 years. The firm runs a general store but they are known throughout Vermont by their large dealings in maple sugar. Last year they shipped out of the state 300 tons. They also deal in real estate and lumber. Mr. Luce still retains his interest in that part of the business.

THOMAS' REMEDY.
Power and Buckshot and a Bounty on Deer-Chasing Dogs.

Stowe, Jan. 28.—Game Commissioner Thomas is receiving a great many complaints of dogs chasing deer. Harry Chase, game commissioner for Bennington county, says in a letter to Mr. Thomas that more damage is done to deer every year by dogs than from all other causes combined. The remedy for it, he says, is "power and buck shot and a bounty on all dogs shot while chasing deer."

Way Behind in Winter's Work.
Stowe, Jan. 28.—Lumber operations are practically at a stand still here on account of the lack of snow and winter men are way behind in their winter's work.

Alleged Swindler Abroad.
A post-office inspector, who is looking for an alleged swindler known as R. W. Harris of Hickory, N. C., and who, it is thought, may travel through the part of the country, was in Rutland Saturday and warned Manager A. J. Boynton of The Berwick against the man.

The charge against Harris is using the mails for fraudulent purposes. His mode of operation is to have mail addressed to him in care of a hotel. In due course of time Harris presents himself at the hotel and asks for his mail. Upon receiving it, he travels through the country, each succeeding one a little later and the trees a little smaller. The descending series frequently ends with a field where young trees are just starting from seeds blown from neighboring woods. It may mark the site of the last remnant of a former plantation which was allowed to relapse into woods because the soil was worn out.

For if any of the principal forests remain in tide-water Virginia, but large trees of second growth exist. A synchronous more than 200 years old, and known to be of second growth, was cut this year on the site of a building burned during Bacon's Rebellion, in 1676, and many other trees as large are growing where tobacco was cultivated and cut in the early years. The forest in its lumber to occupy again is no respecter of historical places. It is slowly taking the intonements at Yorktown, where the British made their last stand, and the tablet marking the very spot where General O'Hara surrendered the sword of Cornwallis (then an open field) would soon be leveled if the axe were not frequently called into use to clear away the encroaching woods.—Baltimore Sun.

The Attraction of Chess Problems.
The mere player who has never experienced the magnetic attraction of problems cannot fully realize the feeling of joy and satisfaction from solving some masterpiece, the work of a famous composer. There can be no doubt that solving problems, especially from diagrams, is an intellectual amusement and that the study of problems tends to accuracy of analysis, quickens the perception and strengthens the chess faculties generally and may occasionally impart some of those sparkling ideas which are so sadly needed in ordinary play.—Strand Magazine.

FOREST CREEPING BACK.

Old Virginia Plantation and Ancient Landmarks Are Disappearing.

Forests are creeping back over the abandoned farms in many parts of the east. When worn-out fields can no longer produce agricultural crops nature takes them back and clothes them with trees again to give them shade and rest and slowly restore fertility to the soil. This is more in evidence in the first settled parts of Virginia perhaps than anywhere else in the country, for the reason that a longer time has passed since the original forests were cleared away and the second growth has had better opportunity to take the land.

In James City county, Virginia, the first permanent English colony in the United States was established 300 years ago, and in that old country the whole cycle of deforestation and reforestation may be studied. Agriculture for a long period pushed the forests back and plantations covered the country; then the forests came again and crowded agriculture out. A hundred years before the Revolution tobacco plantations occupied the best parts of tide-water Virginia and had pushed up the rivers into the Piedmont region.

Continuous bodies of cleared land embraced thousands of acres. Nearly every large plantation had a river frontage and a wharf, and ships carried the tobacco directly to Europe and brought merchandise back. It would be difficult, perhaps impossible to determine with approximate accuracy the proportion of cleared land to the forests in tide-water Virginia fifty years before the Revolution, but there can be no doubt that there was more cleared land than now.

Many great Virginia plantations of Colonial times have contracted under the pressure of surrounding forests giving up field after field to the pine needles until small openings now mark the sites of former estates and all else is woods—second growth or third growth. The early settlers found a soil of great fertility. They drew upon it as though it would last forever. It yielded tobacco and corn for generations and made fortunes for the planters. But the result was inevitable. The soil wore out. A few patches of land are pointed out in James City county and also in nearby districts which have been under continuous cultivation for nearly or quite 300 years. Jamestown island still produces corn, hay and peanuts. But such places are few. The majority of the oldest plantations have partly or wholly gone back to forest.

In traveling through that region now it is frequently possible to note the successive stages of the forest's advance into the cleared land. In one place a body of timber consist of trees a foot in diameter and probably seventy feet high. Their even tops and uniform size show that they occupy the site of a former field where seedlings took possession after a plow had left off its annual tillage. Adjoining such a wood lot another may often be seen with smaller and younger trees, suggesting that they occupy the site of a field abandoned at a later date. Near by may be seen a still younger stand. In some localities the even tops of one wood lot are seen beyond another, descending like steps and marking the sites of one abandoned field beyond another, each succeeding one a little later and the trees a little smaller.

The descending series frequently ends with a field where young trees are just starting from seeds blown from neighboring woods. It may mark the site of the last remnant of a former plantation which was allowed to relapse into woods because the soil was worn out.

For if any of the principal forests remain in tide-water Virginia, but large trees of second growth exist. A synchronous more than 200 years old, and known to be of second growth, was cut this year on the site of a building burned during Bacon's Rebellion, in 1676, and many other trees as large are growing where tobacco was cultivated and cut in the early years. NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Unna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the harbinger of baldness, and that by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newcomb's Herculite kills the dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance.

Herculite is now used by thousands of people—all satisfied that it is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market to-day.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herculite Co., Detroit, Mich.
